

A Bowdoin Degree

Is Awarded N. C. Wyeth, an Honored Summer Resident Of Port Clyde

Among those who received honorary degrees at the recent Bowdoin College commencement was Newell Convers Wyeth of Chadd's Ford, Penn., and Port Clyde. President Sills' citation follows:

"Newell Convers Wyeth, of Chadd's Ford, Penn., and Port Clyde, artist, America's foremost illustrator whose pictures in a score of juvenile classics are more familiar to the children of our nation than are those of any other artist, and whose recent superb paintings for 'Trending into Maine' by Kenneth Roberts have especially endeared him to people of this State; one of the most distinguished of American mural painters; direct descendant of a signer of the Declaration of Independence; father of a young son nationally known for his water colors, and said to be head of the largest-sized family of artists in America; one who without a formal education has done as much for American art as any college graduate; for many years in reality and now in academic term, Honoria Causa, Master of Arts."

There was a very fine exhibit of some of his original pictures (including three of the original paintings that were reproduced in "Trending into Maine") at the Walker Art Gallery at Commencement time.

Artist Wyeth long ago became enamored of Port Clyde's scenic treasures, and today is regaled by the townspeople with deepest affection and admiration.

Mrs. Smith Pleased
With a Handsome Souvenir Sent Her By Vocational Training Students

When Representative Margaret Chase Smith was last in Rockland, she visited school and dropped in at the vocational training classroom where the boys were working at the machines and benches. She was fascinated with what they were doing and wanted to visit them longer.

"I have felt for a long time," she said, "that there was a real place for this kind of education in schools throughout the country and when seeing some of their accomplishments I know that I am justified in this thought."

"Recently a package arrived in my office from six of the boys in

To Step Up Sales

More E-Bonds Must Be Sold To Save Maine's Reputation

In an effort to step up sales to individuals which are for the first time in any of the War Bond drives far below the National average, Phillips M. Payson, Chairman and Harvey M. Pickett, Executive Manager, of the Maine War Finance Committee will visit Regional and City Chairmen in several sections this week.

Today they will be in Rockland, Camden and Belfast. They will discuss programs and ideas for stimulating sales and especially E-bonds which are at a record low so far as Maine is concerned.

With only two weeks to go it is becoming apparent that unless there is a very marked increase in the demand for this Nationally popular security it will leave the State in a very unenviable position in regard to this particular bond, which now has a 45% margin to overcome to attain its quota.

that group. Upon opening it I found a most beautiful marine electric lamp base which I have placed on my desk at the office where it will be in use daily. The fine workmanship and details of this gift show very careful training and aptitude.

"I am very happy with both the gift and the thought that permitted it and have written each one of the boys my appreciation."

Which is quite characteristic of this appreciative woman.

HEARING IN CAMDEN

The U. S. Engineering Office of the War Department will hold a public hearing Thursday at 10 o'clock at the town offices in Camden to determine the advisability of providing additional improvements in the interests of navigation and national safety, at Camden harbor.

Salute In Song

Tribute to Yankee Lads Set In Patriotic Melody By Walter P. Conley

Composer, Walter P. Conley

"They're Coming Back"—joyous words these, so joyous in fact, that Dr. Walter P. Conley of Rockland rated them "way and beyond mere stodgy prose, and forthwith proceeded to set them on wings of song."

A year of study, arranging and revision of that word trio reached a melodic climax Friday at the Rotary Club luncheon when Dr. Conley introduced his composition through the vocal artistry of Rockland's stellar soloist, Miss Lotte McLaughlin, who was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Ruth Sanborn. Readily catching the rhythm, the Rotarians joined heartily in the chorus and a solid volume of harmony resounded to a vibrant finale. They approved.

"An excellent war song, with a melody that lingers in mind" was the comment of Miss McLaughlin whose knowledge of the musical realm is professional and acutely discriminating.

Col. Saville Came

Tells American Legion Committee of Progress Made In Rehabilitation

Lieut. Col. Richard F. Saville of Augusta, who is in charge of the rehabilitation program in Maine for returned veterans, met last week at Legion Hall with the Knox County committee, 35 being present.

Col. Saville gave a talk on the progress already made along this line, and answered several questions asked by members of the committee.

He showed several reels of motion pictures; one showing Germany's plan for world conquest; one showing facts and incidents which led up to this war; a technicolor reel of the Aleutians and the bombing of Kiska, and an especially interesting reel, entitled "The Sergeant's Diary" showing an actual case of a Massachusetts young man, using artificial hands, and who will enter Boston University for a regular course of study.

Two Weeks' Training

Civil Air Patrol Will Have Interesting Experience At Dow Field

Civil Air Patrol 1 Cadets of the Maine Wing, who will have a two weeks' training encampment at Dow Field this Summer, will be shown how to "fly" in Link trainers. The Link, used for instrument training, is an airplane without wings which simulates actual flight.

Two hundred selected cadets of the Maine Wing, Civil Air Patrol will undergo an intensive two-weeks' training mobilization at Dow Field, Bangor Air Transport Command base, July 28 to Aug. 11, it was announced Saturday by Lt. Col. Guy P. Gannett, Maine Wing Commander.

The cadets will be selected from CAP units in Augusta, Bangor, Brunswick, Calais, Lewiston, Lincoln, Millinocket, Portland, Presque Isle, Rockland, Sanford, Skowhegan and Waterville on the basis of qualifications to be determined by their unit commanders.

The training program now being worked out by Wing Staff officers in co-operation with Dow Field personnel, includes military, pre-flight and communications training as well as special courses. Flight line and hangar inspections will be part of the program which will be supervised by AAF and CAP officers.

During the two weeks they are at Dow Field the cadets will live a strict GI existence under military discipline. They will police their own quarters, stand guard and carry out such other work details as may be assigned. There will be plenty of time for recreation, however, and the program will include numerous strictly entertainment features.

Col. Gannett said that one important feature of the encampment would be the opportunity given the cadets to get experience in leadership. He explained that the group would be divided into flights and that the boys would be appointed to flight and squad positions on a rotating basis.

Expenses of the encampment will be met from the proceeds of a series of concerts and dances and by other fund-raising projects sponsored by CAP units. Although there will be no charge for use of the facilities at Dow Field, it was explained that War Department regulations do not permit feeding CAP members except at established mess rates of 75c per day. The only other required charges are for laundry.

VINALHAVEN PORT DISTRICT

The Black Cat

(By The Roving Reporter)

"Now that Summer weather has arrived we are making plans for our Tenant's Harbor visitation July 14-28," writes William F. Riley, who accompanies that welcome news with a newspaper picture of the lost Steamer Portland, made from a rare print, and reproduced in the Boston Traveler of June 13. It came to light in a Roxbury storehouse.

The "green bench" section of Thomaston's Main street is consistently patronized by local citizens who swap yarns and direct the affairs of Congress.

I noticed a short section of Main street the other day, which was quite liberally strewn with coal which had fallen from a passing truck. This didn't surprise me nearly as much as the fact that the heaped vehicles seldom shed any of their contents. One would suppose that the law of gravity would do it automatically.

John Watts, proprietor of the "Home Stretch" barber shop, has joined the closing-uppers and his place of business on Pleasant street will be minus his genial presence on Wednesday afternoon while the close time exists. Whether John will devote his time to mowing that three-acre lawn on Rocky Hill, or studying up new methods of winning the running races was not included in his announcement.

Twenty percent more cigarettes now available. But the lines still form.—Press Herald.

Banana lines outdone.

Under the caption "Nonsense as usual" Fred C. Simmons of Watertown, N. Y., (formerly of Rockland) writes:

"We have had a cold wet Spring, but warmer last few days. Lightning and thunder this morning, but no rain. As per your criticism of 'cordially' invited, and 'afternoon plus 7.30 p. m.' you find in all cases thunder used first. Lightning comes first so why not so state it?"

"Meat is off the market, except cold cuts. All meat counters are filled with baked goods, with canned fish and bottled goods. In order to keep in practice with various cuts of meat, I told the clerk I would like a sirloin of horse radish!"

In response to an inquiry made by Edward Rowe Snow (whose name is now very familiar to New England radio fans) I will say that the six-masted schooner Mertie B. Crowley was built at Cobb, Butler & Co.'s yard in Rockland and was designed by the late John J. Wardwell, who had previously been employed as master builder at the H. M. Bean yard in Camden. The craft had a gross tonnage of 2824 and measured 412 feet from spanker boom to the tip of the jib-boom.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

NO OTHER SOUND

No other sound against the ear,
O be it bird or be it bough,
Can be as faultless and as clear
As this sweet cadence I hear now.
Within the parlor of the shell,
It breaks anew to sudden foam,
And strikes as softly as a bell.
One hears again the tide turned home,
Lifting its running breakers or
Those quieter waters of the side
Which, lifted by the drifting oar,
Keep strewn and sleeping must abide.
Like song forever in the breast,
No other sound can be as sweet,
To one who loves the ocean best,
And wants it, laughing at his feet.

Book Review

K. S. F.

"Sergeant Nelson of the Guards." By Gerald Kersh. The John C. Winston Co., Philadelphia, Publishers.

I doubt if there has come to press in book form any one more vivid account written of the British retreat to Dunkirk than is found in this thrilling story.

It is a tale so moving and so sad and full of blood and thunder, with much of fact even if the story is highlighted with fiction. Here the picture painted is sharp as a razor, and infectious and understandable as daylight. With it we feel we really know this brave soldier Nelson. Kathleen S. Fuller

"Poems For A Son With Wings." Author, Robert P. Tristram Coffin. Published by The Macmillan Company, New York.

This more than ordinarily versatile writer is welcomed when ever his pen takes to paper. His subjects are as varied as his scholastic genius, his imagination as broad as the world. He loves Maine and its beautiful coast, its waters, and all that is worthy of food which comes from its depth.

This particular book takes its title from the group of poems that have come from his heart, to a son in this war, "on wings." Mr. Coffin has a flair for reality and things of the moment, also for poetic deductions, deepening thought on everyday life, into beauty and worthiness of high emotion. Mr. Coffin brings into this clever selection of poems, his daughter and her marriage last year, and the poem he wrote for that event.

He pictures the beautiful, the sadness and the esthetic in colors that blend and harmonize with heart throbs of help to all. Prof. Coffin is a man with intelligent humor, and a heart for realities in life at their best. He has become less robust in his lines and, at one time, coarser thoughts. Life has towed him to the highest, and worthwhile in all things, especially poetry and you will find much to dwell on in this book.

THEY ARE NOT DEAD

[For The Courier-Gazette] They are not dead, forever dead. Those well remembered faces. They have but left us far awhile. To live in fairer places.

Where Summer never tarts to frost. Where snowflakes never fall. Where paths cut through ice spicy woods To trail along some wall.

To where the light falls quietly Across each heavenly floor. And flagstone walks lead up to where White crosses mark each door.

For each a house is waiting there. Prepared by God who cares. Crisp curtains at each sparkling pane. Blue carpets on the stairs.

Designer's made at God's command. Homes like each earthly place. Only with costlier hangings. Only with creamier lace.

They are not dead, forever dead. Those well remembered faces. They have but left us far awhile. To live in fairer places.

NICE, BUT NOT VERY PROBABLE

Sewall family rest. In the current issue of the Portland Sunday Telegram Dorris Westall says that whether Mrs. Sumner Sewall would run for Congress in the First District is among the week's conjectures in Maine political circles. We have never considered that possibility and seriously doubt that such a contingency will ever arise, but in view of the tremendous popularity which Mrs. Sewall achieved during her husband's two administrations as Governor, coupled with her marked ability, would make her a competitor which Representative Hale or any other opponent would not too lightly regard.

PEACE PERILS IN GERMANY

The Army of Occupation which will have to do with the straightening out of the tangled situation in Germany is faced by no easy task; on the contrary will be beset by peril. This was evidenced by the unsolved garroting of an American enlisted man, and unearthing of two important caches of weapons and a training schedule for young Nazis on "How To Kill Silently." Doubtless the conditions under which the Germans find themselves today will be accepted as philosophically as possible by many of the Germans, but among the masses are many with whom the bitterness of defeat will find violent expression when the angered Huns feel that they can do so with a reasonable degree of safety. The man who strikes behind your back is no stranger in Germany.

"Pete" Newell, president of the Bath Iron Works, and one of the country's foremost captains of industry, is to be honored with a "Kennebec party" at the Samost Hotel June 27, the day before that resort's official opening. The official call, sounded by Nelson C. Smith, executive vice president, says:

"As you know, Mr. Newell is president and general manager of the Bath Iron Works and his outstanding contribution to the war effort has not only been acclaimed in this country but everywhere the famous destroyers built by the Bath Iron Works have participated in the terrific battle for freedom. Mr. Newell is not only a great shipbuilder but he is also a great public servant. Leading educators, bankers, industrialists and the Army and Navy will be with us to make the occasion a memorable one. Samost By The Sea has much to offer, including a nine-hole golf course. We are asking as many as possible to come as early as they can so that they can spend the entire day and enjoy some real Maine relaxation. Luncheon will be served at 12:30."

Salute To Flag

Words and music were composed by Dr. Conley and arranged by Aaron A. Clark of Thomaston. Publication was by John Worley Co., Boston. The cover design, in brilliant patriotic hue, depicts Miss Liberty with her torch ushering home America's heroes by sea and by air, the while Old Glory ripples in splendor.

Dr. Conley has played and laughed and reveled with this hobby for the past several months. Although musically inclined, this is his first urge to capture a tune in tangible form. It is not a commercial venture, but rather a buoyant tribute to the gallant Yankee lads who are returning from the war to home and loved ones. A welcome from the heart to the boys who preserved the American way of life, is the keynote and theme of Dr. Conley's melody, which runs:

You heard the call to shoulder arms; They came from the city, they came from the farms, There just to fight for freedom and right. In the lands across the sea, Over the top to win or to die, "On to Tokyo" was their battle cry, All honor then to MacArthur's men When they come marching home.

Chorus: They're coming back here to home and glory, They're coming back here to tell the story How the Yankees fought with true Yankee fame, They gave back to France, Alsace Lorraine, And the whole world will breathe its freedom again Since our boys went away over there.

A quarter-Century ago it was, but Dr. Conley bears yet in mind another return from another World War, when his own bluejacket days were over and he was "coming back." Aye, he knows well the feeling; and every surge of it, every beat of it marches through the tempo of his inspired melody, "They're Coming Back."

Rooms Still Needed, Especially For Those Who Come In Boats

The executive board of the Service Men's Club met last Wednesday. This being the first meeting of the new fiscal year the annual report of the treasurer was presented.

The club takes this opportunity to express thanks and appreciation for several gifts, which have recently been received.

There is still urgent need for more magazines of recent date and other reading matter. Ping pong balls are also very much desired. Anyone wishing to donate some may leave them at the room or call Mrs. Charles Emery. It is important that hostesses when serving should be at the room at the appointed hour so the rooms may be opened as scheduled.

We would like it to be clearly understood that nothing is to be taken from the room, such as music, games and any other articles. All of the equipment there is for use in the Club room only.

Some of the regular Senior hostesses are away for the Summer and new ones are needed to take their places. Two are especially needed for the hours 7:30 to 10:30 every other Wednesday night. Anyone willing to serve as substitute or regular for these or any other hours may call Mrs. C. A. Emery, 436-M.

Through the co-operation of Lt. Commander I. L. Hammond and some of the personnel at the base a victrola has been repaired and placed in the writing room. This is much appreciated by the Club and those who use the room.

With some the feeling persists that the room is no longer needed. To be sure there are hours when only a few or perhaps no boys come in. Again, there will be many. The room is not needed so much for boys stationed here, as they are often invited to homes having had an opportunity of making friends. It is primarily for those who come in on boats and are here for only a short time. They do want and need some place like the room where they can go and have a chance to read, write or do whatever they wish. It is the nearest to a bit of home life they are privileged to have for many weeks at a time. Looking at it from this standpoint it is very essential that the work goes on and request has come from the base for the club to still carry on with the room.

WHY A FUSE

This little fuse is actually a form of insurance; it acts as a safety valve for the electric system that lights your home and does so much of your housework.

When the soft metal link in the fuse melts—or "blows out"—it's a signal that something is wrong with the electric equipment, or the way the equipment is being used. The fuse protects you by shutting off the current and thus prevents a possible fire. BECAUSE OF ITS IMPORTANT FUNCTION, A FUSE SHOULD NEVER BE TAMPERED WITH IN ANY WAY!

If you can locate the trouble that has caused the fuse to blow out . . . it is a simple matter to replace it yourself, after the trouble's been corrected. Just be sure the new fuse is the correct amperage—most houses take the fuse marked 15A. If you are in doubt as to the cause of the blown out fuse, call your nearest electrical dealer or our Service Department.

Studies Rewarded

Knox and Hancock Students Get Certificates At Maritime Academy

One hundred one young men were graduated from the Maine Maritime Academy in Castine at the fourth graduation exercises Saturday. This makes a total of 394 mates, engineers as well as U. S. Naval Reserve officers, sent to sea from this Academy since its establishment in 1941.

Entering in November, 1943, the cadets chose either the engineering or the deck field of study, from which they have now graduated as officers. A deckman received instruction in such studies as navigation, naval science, seamanship, ship construction, cargo, communications, and elementary marine engineering.

Engineers studied marine steam and diesel engineering, electricity, ship construction, mathematics, naval science, drawing, machine shop practice.

Military drill, small boat handling and gunnery rounded out the training for both departments.

Six months of the training period was spent aboard the U.S.M.S.T.S. American pilot. It was here that the hours of class room work was put to the best advantage, and the officers-to-be were instilled with the ways of the sea.

Halver Hart, Jr., of South Hope, and John McKen of Camden, were certified as third mates in the Merchant Marine. Frank J. Allen of Stonington, David Eicknell of Rockland, and Walter H. Gray of Stonington were certified as third engineers.

With several surprise evening speakers, the Educational Club's Rockport Baptist Church meeting from 3 to 8.30 next Friday promises to be outstanding, with current news, forums, quotations, quizzes, reports, besides addresses in the afternoon, with music by Dr. P. S. Bourdeau-Sisco, Rev. and Mrs. C. Vaughn Overman on their recent interesting trip through Tennessee and adjacent States. Future plans and study are up for discussion. With no other source for income except dues, this club recently added $300 to its War Bond purchase, totaling $1500, this eventually to become the club's Permanent Education Fund, in charge of the Bond and Budget Committee.

Norma Bridges, Edith Carr, Kenneth Chatto, Evelyn Clark, Rosemarie Goodman, Betty Hempstead, Curtis Lindsey, Sidney Rasche, Donald Snowman, Irma Snowdeal and Kay Stevens are attending this week, a senior institute of the Methodist Youth Fellowship, in session at Camp Character, Lake Cobbeeseecontee.

Farm Loan Program

Knox County Servicemen Returning To Agriculture Will Be Interested

A new program of farm loans to Knox County servicemen returning to agriculture was announced today by Fred C. Merry, County Supervisor of the Farm Security Administration.

The loans, entirely separate from GI Bill of Rights transactions, are made under the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act, which FSA administers, and provide 40-year, three percent credit to experienced farmers who cannot arrange satisfactory credit elsewhere.

Mr. Merry emphasized that the loans would be made only to veterans with satisfactory farm experience and training. The qualifications of applicants will be approved by the County FSA Committee of three experienced local farmers. On the Knox County Committee are: Edwin C. Teague, Warren; Wallace K. Robbins, Camden; and Arnold E. Laine, Thomaston.

"Veterans with the necessary experience and ability will find these Farm Tenant loans highly satisfactory," Mr. Merry said. "The long repayment term, the variable annual repayment feature and the advice and guidance available through the county office and the county committee combine to make these loans an effective way of helping servicemen re-establish themselves on family-type farms here in Knox County."

The Bankhead-Jones Act appropriation for the next fiscal year which begins July 1 contained an item of $25,000,000 earmarked for loans to veterans, Mr. Merry explained. The funds will be available in the office here shortly after that date.

The County FSA Committee will study the veteran's application and also the farm which he proposes to buy with the loan. The committee must satisfy itself, Mr. Merry said, that the farm is priced at its agricultural value—that is, a price which the farm's income at long-time average prices will be able to repay.

"The committee will be a double-barreled protection. Not only will its members make sure that the veteran is protected from 'get-rich-quick' land sharks and real estate promoters, but it will also try to keep a serviceman with more enthusiasm than experience from tying himself up in an enterprise too big and complicated for him to manage successfully."

County Supervisor Merry's office is located in the First National Bank Building, Belfast, Maine. The office is open daily from 8 to 5.

City Clerk Edwin R. Keene commenced yesterday the issuing of bicycle licenses. Owners should register as soon as possible, as all bicycles must be licensed before July 1. The number of bicycles registered last year was 772.

Two Hundred There

Lloyd Daniels Elected President of High School Alumni Asso.

The 56 year old Rockland High School Alumni Association held its annual business meeting, and entertainment hour with refreshments and dancing in the High School building Friday night, with Lendon C. Jackson, president, as master of ceremonies. There was a special recognition of the Class of 1895.

Those in the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Stoddard, Miss Alena L. Young, Mrs. Nellie Walker Bird, Mrs. Elonia Tuttle, Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Harden, Sr. and Mrs. J. Fred Knight and Mr. and Mrs. Lendon C. Jackson.

President Jackson welcomed the members of the graduating class and a happy response was made by Dale Lindsey, president of the new recruits to the association. It seldom, if ever, occurs that parents have a daughter and a granddaughter in the graduating class, but such was the case this year, as Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Harden, Sr., saw their daughter, Dorothy Harden, and granddaughter, Elizabeth Sawyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merton R. Sawyer, receive their diplomas. Two hundred were present at the meeting.

Miss Katherine A. Veazie, secretary, read the report of the 1944 meeting, and also the report of the treasurer, Miss Lucille Connon, which showed a balance of $106.17 on hand. Herman M. Hart, treasurer of the Anna E. Coughlin Scholarship Fund, reported that the fund now stood at $234.01. Mr. Hart stated that there were approximately 2530 living alumni, and that plans were underway for a solicitation of funds from each and every one, with an ultimate goal of $2500.

It was voted that the cost of printing and postage for the solicitation be taken from the association funds; that the present committee administer the fund, and that one new member, to be appointed by the president, be added to the committee.

Elmer B. Crockett, 1907, reported for the nominating committee which had selected for officers for 1945-46: Louise Dilliver Gregory, 1930, vice president; Miss Katherine A. Veazie, 1926, secretary; Miss Lucille Connon, 1941, treasurer; Lawrence Miller, 1923, Mary Rankin Ladd, 1906, Kathryn Ulmer St. Clair, 1912, Louise Harden, 1941, Aimee Karl, 1945, and Henry Marsh, 1928, were unanimously elected.

It was voted that the association send a bouquet of flowers to Miss Anna E. Coughlin, long time High School teacher and principal, who is recovering from a severe illness. Miss Veazie called the roll of classes, the first to respond being 1895, with five present: Mrs. Eugene E. Stoddard, Miss Alena Y. Young, Mrs. Elonia Tuttle, Mrs. Nellie Bird and Mrs. J. Fred Knight, and a telegraphic greeting from Miss Mary Woodside, who lives in Freeport. Next represented was 1896; then there were responses from every class from 1899 to 1945, inclusive, with the exception of 1903, 1905, and 1910. The total number of classes represented were 46, two less than last year.

WE are all rejoicing with Town Representative Irving Bach of Union and family who have just heard that their son, Walter, a German prisoner for 14 months, is alive and waiting for a plane to fly him to England, and then home. This is the first word they have had from Walter since last November. Irving has won wonderful faith during these months of anxious waiting.

Our cashier, Helen Mitchell, flew from Augusta to Presque Isle, with Mrs. Almon M. Young, to visit for a day or two with "Sonny" Young. Staff Sgt. Young was on official business from Newfoundland.

One of the latest "fish" stories comes to me about our good friend, Percy Williams, of the inventory department. It seems Percy went down to the fish market and the fish that got away was so big he actually pulled Percy right off the rock on which he was standing into the stream. The water was wet, Percy got his boots full, and he caught no fish.

Meterman Milton Rollins has received word that his son, Harland, is on his way home from Nevada where he has just graduated from an airplane gunnery school.

Hilton Ames and Mrs. Ames have received some very fine letters from their former meter reader, Robie Ames. Robie would enjoy hearing from the boys and girls. His address is: Pvt. Robie Ames, 3147955, Co. C 17th Bat. 5 Reg. I.R.T.C. Camp Gordon, Georgia.

Lutie Jones has received more tobacco from Germany—compliments of our Ray MacFarland who has seen much front line service there.

Lanham Eckart Colburn has come to Boston for a check-up at the clinic.

Harold Tolman of the gas department has purchased a home on Lake Avenue, and is nicely situated there, already having started in farming on a small scale.

Word comes to us that our friend and former employee, Hazel G. Wall, is seriously ill, and is hospitalized in Waterville. Cards will reach her at 85 Western Ave., Waterville.

"A thing of beauty," is A. J. Murray's back yard right now with all the new shades of green on the trees and bushes, and hundreds of lovely tulips.

Five competent men from the Rockland line crew have returned to their work in Rockland after having spent the past two weeks in the northern division assisting in repairing our damaged lines caused by the May blizzard.

Eleanor-Mary Dougherty spent the week-end in Boston.

May 11 is a day Lutie Jones will remember. He got stuck in the snow on his way back from his farm and had to telephone for help to pull him out.

Charles Hare of the gas plant had a peculiar accident May 27. While at his regular work of gas making, the cast iron cover gave way and he dropped into a pit about 5 ft. deep. He received a surprise and a bad shaking-up. No bones were broken.

Carroll Merrill, service foreman, has gone into gardening on such a large scale that he has had to forsake the hoe and take up with the tractor. After working in the garden all day Sunday to relax, Carroll digs clams, and claims to have dug more clams than any other Central Maine employee.

Warren High School Graduates a Class of Thirteen But Members Had No Misgivings—Cash Awards

A class of 13 received diplomas Wednesday night from Supt. A. D. Gray, at graduation exercises held in the Baptist Church.

Each member of the class took part in the exercises, which were simple and effective. The graduates wore blue caps and gowns, the tassels of patriotic colors, an effective foil against the decorations of early Summer flowers, arranged by Mrs. Grace Wyllie, and the Senior class members. The motto, in the class colors, blue in white, "Knowledge Comes; Wisdom Lingers," as part of the decoration, was made by the Senior class, directed by Miss Evelyn Wotton.

Ushers were members of the class of 1946, and included Mary Norwood, Frances Wren, Flora Simmons, Barbara Perry, Harry Laiho, Herbert Moon, Gilbert Bogs, Alfred Wilson, and Louie Cogan as marshal, her bayon in the class colors. Adding much to the occasion during the procession were the corsages worn by the graduating class; yellow roses by the Juniors; sweet peas by the Sophomores and snapdragons by the Freshmen. Boys of each class wore single flowers as boutonnières.

Two numbers, "The Green Cathedral" (Hahn), and "Evensong—The Angels from Maritana," were sung by the Glee Club of the High School, the director of which is Mrs. Ray Emerson, teacher of music. The accompanist was Mrs. Larsen of the faculty, and the singers were Olive Robinson, Lois Norwood, Evangeline Barbour, Flora Simmons, Margaret Starrett, Virginia Underwood, Monica Penney, Robert Wyllie, Alfred Wilson, Jeannette Perry, Lois Norwood and Betty Moore.

Fred L. Perkins, Jr., principal of Warren High School, made several awards at the close of the graduation exercises that evening.

Miss Lois Norwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Norwood, valedictorian of the class, was winner of a year's subscription to a monthly magazine, $25 in cash, given anonymously to the highest ranking girl in the Senior class, the Becker College Key, and the Danforth Foundation college, "I Dare You." Miss Ethel Wiley received the D.A.R. certificate and medal; Merrill Pisk, the highest ranking boy of the class, was awarded $25 in cash, given anonymously to the highest ranking boy in the class of 1945; also the book, "I Dare You."

Athletic awards were given to Betty Moore and John Gephart. Principal Perkins gave two personal awards, the first to the highest ranking student in history, which went to Miss Mary Norwood, member of the Junior class; and the second to the highest ranking student in English, Miss Hazel Snowdeal, of the Freshman class.

Merrill Pisk is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Pisk; Miss Ethel Wiley, the granddaughter of Mrs. Verna Wiley; Miss Betty Moore, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Moore; John Gephart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Greene.

Members of the class that graduated Wednesday night were Mary Farris, Merrill Pisk, John Gephart, Joyce Hills, Leah Jackson, Faye Martin, Nathalie Tolman, Elma Moon, Betty Moore, Lois Norwood, Vaughan Philbrook, Ethel Wiley and Evelyn Wotton.

After the exercises and reception the ball was held at Glover hall, decorations depicting an Hawaiian scene, complete with palm and moonlight effect, arranged by Mrs. Larsen of the faculty, assisted by several High School students and by members of the Warren P.T.A.

The Senior class made gifts to the teachers as follows the last week of school: to Principal Perkins, two books; to Mrs. Larsen, a traveling kit; and to Mrs. Wyllie, a powder and perfume set.

Saw Fine Gardens Those Who Attended Executive Board Meeting In Portland Richly Rewarded

The annual executive board meeting of The Garden Club Federation of Maine was held at Portland, Thursday and Friday with 42 present, including garden club members from nearby towns. Mrs. Edward P. Merrill, State President, presided. Those who went Wednesday were guests of the Longfellow Garden Club, Portland, on a ride through the suburbs to the famous Iris gardens of Mrs. Walter Tobey where she is engaged in hybridizing this plant, and has achieved amazingly beautiful new varieties. The grounds have been landscaped by the well-known artist, Mrs. Hary Hayward of South Portland.

From there the guests continued to the Cape Elizabeth home of Mrs. Charles Locke, overlooking Casco Bay; here are rock gardens, herb gardens and other beauties of nature. A delicious buffet supper was served by the hostess, assisted by members of the Longfellow Garden Club.

Later the famous Kellogg Award was presented to Mrs. Harrie B. Coe, president Longfellow Garden Club, for the club's outstanding project in Baxter Woods, which has been carried on by Mrs. Marie Preston, chairman of conservation. Here has been established a Nature Trail and a Bird Sanctuary. This is the first time that Kellogg Award for civic achievement, has come to any State in New England, and naturally the members of the Maine Federation were pleased. A program for children is being carried on in the 20 acres of woodland since Ex-Governor Baxter leased the land to the city; title will eventually pass to the city in perpetuity. A trained nature leader conducts programs for children throughout the Summer.

Many clubs in Maine are doing fine work at Tugus Facility for Veterans. Several florists send, each week, hundreds of flowers some of which are used in teaching the men floral arrangements. Birthday boxes are sent to men by some clubs.

A Resolution was presented, to be acted upon at the next annual meeting that the by-laws be amended so that all past presidents of the Maine Federation of Garden Clubs, become advisory members of the Executive Board.

A Life Membership in the National Council of State Garden Clubs was presented to the retiring State president, Mrs. Edward P. Merrill of Skowhegan, who has served with distinction for the past two years. Officers elected for 1945-46 are: President, Miss Elizabeth E. Fox, Gorham; 1st vice president, Mrs. Marie Preston, Fairfield; 2d vice president, Mrs. Charles W. Eaton, Auburn; recording secretary, Mrs. Robert Miller, Topsham; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Raymond Cahoon, South Portland; treasurer, Miss Virginia Jones, China, Maine.

Miss Lucille Ryan, in behalf of Mr. Day, extended an invitation to the Garden Federation to hold its annual meeting in Rangleys in 1946. —Maude Blodgett.

Meet "Thomas Edison"

For That's What the Central Maine Folks Call Lloyd Benner

With a rich experience in electricity dating back to 1914 with the Company, and beyond that for all The Exciter knows to the contrary Lloyd N. Benner, District Superintendent in Brunswick, is eminently qualified to be called the "Thomas Edison" of Central Maine Power Company. Lloyd's work in many departments of the Company, and with scores of phases of the business, ranges from general testing, maintenance and repair work while with the old Rockland, Thomaston and Camden Street Railway in the meter department from the start of his Company life, all the way up the line to his present lofty position.

His second job taken in the Fall of 1919, was as foreman of inside construction and chief electrician which he held until the closing out of the wiring department. On one of the largest wiring jobs ever done in eastern Maine, that of the Maine Seaboard Paper mill in Bucksport, Lloyd served in a supervisory capacity.

Another eminent job, that of assisting the architects in laying out the wiring and electrical equipment involved in the construction of the Veterans' Hospital at Togus, added to Lloyd's wide experience.

As the service work grew, he took charge of that department in Rockland until he was transferred to Waldoboro as Town Rep in November, 1932. Then, in October, 1934, he was transferred to his present position as District Superintendent in Brunswick, with Lisbon, Freeport, Yarmouth, Topsham, Durham and Harswell under his jurisdiction.

Lloyd's real hobby according to Mrs. Benner's testimony is invention which consumes all of his spare time. Mrs. Benner states that she has known many times when she hardly dared go down into her own basement for fear of being electrocuted. Many of his "gadgets" have been put to use to the great benefit of the efficiency and convenience of his office staff, it is reported, one being the well known electric eye which has been a source of constant amusement to Company customers. Another, a board with hooks for each department which are to be hung on one of two screws. Thus, hanging the hook on the top screw causes a red light to flash in, for instance, the Service Department, or perhaps the Meter Department, enabling any member of that department to know that there is an order for its execution, "out front."

Lloyd's appliance tester, his fluorescent lamp and starter are more widely known. In fact, several other Company offices use them.

One of his latest and perhaps more useful inventions, is a system of using a thrift cooker by itself in a manner similar to using a casserole. These cookers are in great demand and sell as fast as he can find time to put them together.

An interesting and typical Benner demonstration of skill with electricity was given at the last Safety Meeting where he entertained the group by using high voltage with a Tesla Coil, sending out streamers of sparks more than a foot long in all directions, thus causing fluorescent lights to glow all around the room. It was a weird sight to see the lamps glow without any direct connection by wire being made to them.

Lloyd served overseas for 15 months in World War I, with the Signal Corps, returning to the Company in 1919 autumn. He is very active in local business and civic affairs in Brunswick, being presently president and a director of the Brunswick Chamber of Commerce. He has also been president of the Brunswick Lion's Club.

The Benner's pride and joy are their two children, Wipfield, now in the armed forces, and Leatrice who attends school in Boston. The only member of the family at home with Lloyd and Mrs. Benner is an enormous black cat which, The Exciter suspects, also gives off electricity.—From "The Exciter" (Central Maine trade magazine).

Williams and Mary Plaisted; the Becker College award for student making highest grade in Commercial Course went to Myrtle Marshall; The American Legion Medal for good citizenship was presented to John Williams and Mary Plaisted. The recipients of the American Legion awards are determined by vote of the graduating class. This year the Rotary Club presented "Progress" awards to underclassmen and these were won by Carlton Dougherty of the Sophomore class and Margaret Gordon, Freshman.

The final Reading Contest for the Lawrence Chapman Memorial Medal was held Thursday in the Junior High, judges for which were Rev. James W. Barr, pastor of Rockport Methodist Church; Mrs. Bernice Robbins, member of faculty of Union High School; and Mrs. Leroy Beverage, wife of the Instructor of Art in Camden schools. Thus, hanging the hook on the top screw causes a red light to flash in, for instance, the Service Department, or perhaps the Meter Department, enabling any member of that department to know that there is an order for its execution, "out front."

Lloyd's appliance tester, his fluorescent lamp and starter are more widely known. In fact, several other Company offices use them.

One of his latest and perhaps more useful inventions, is a system of using a thrift cooker by itself in a manner similar to using a casserole. These cookers are in great demand and sell as fast as he can find time to put them together.

An interesting and typical Benner demonstration of skill with electricity was given at the last Safety Meeting where he entertained the group by using high voltage with a Tesla Coil, sending out streamers of sparks more than a foot long in all directions, thus causing fluorescent lights to glow all around the room. It was a weird sight to see the lamps glow without any direct connection by wire being made to them.

Lloyd served overseas for 15 months in World War I, with the Signal Corps, returning to the Company in 1919 autumn. He is very active in local business and civic affairs in Brunswick, being presently president and a director of the Brunswick Chamber of Commerce. He has also been president of the Brunswick Lion's Club.

The Benner's pride and joy are their two children, Wipfield, now in the armed forces, and Leatrice who attends school in Boston. The only member of the family at home with Lloyd and Mrs. Benner is an enormous black cat which, The Exciter suspects, also gives off electricity.—From "The Exciter" (Central Maine trade magazine).

Lloyd's real hobby according to Mrs. Benner's testimony is invention which consumes all of his spare time. Mrs. Benner states that she has known many times when she hardly dared go down into her own basement for fear of being electrocuted. Many of his "gadgets" have been put to use to the great benefit of the efficiency and convenience of his office staff, it is reported, one being the well known electric eye which has been a source of constant amusement to Company customers. Another, a board with hooks for each department which are to be hung on one of two screws. Thus, hanging the hook on the top screw causes a red light to flash in, for instance, the Service Department, or perhaps the Meter Department, enabling any member of that department to know that there is an order for its execution, "out front."

To Train Instructor

Red Cross School Probably At Lakewood, During August

As the war goes into later stages, Red Cross work becomes more extensive and difficult. Service men veterans and families are increasingly worried by absence, sickness of dependents, and the choking of dependency payments by red tape. It is planned to instruct Knox County Red Cross workers to perform their important tasks, and to be ready for the load which is coming.

The National Red Cross will conduct a training school this Summer, for the benefit of one representative from each of the several neighboring counties. This Home Service Institute will begin about Aug. 20, and continue for five days. Transportation and expenses will be furnished by the National Red Cross. Lakewood is the likely place.

The object of this institute is to train an instructor, who in turn will teach Home Service work to our Branches and local Red Cross workers. Since the object is to train a teacher, and not to teach Home Service, the worker must either have had experience, or be willing to learn the job under the supervision at the Chapter office, beforehand.

Candidates for this unpaid but highly responsible job will please report to me at 2 p. m., Tuesday, June 26, at the Rockland Red Cross office, for enrollment and further instructions.

At the proper time, the successful candidate will be nominated by the Knox County Red Cross Executive Committee, having due regard to qualifications and probable usefulness.

Keryn ap Rice, Chairman

Mr. and Mrs. Roy M. Estes and daughter Jeanne have returned from a visit with Mr. Estes' mother, Mrs. Roy E. Estes in Swampscott, Mass.

This And That

By K. S. F.

Have you noticed when a person has an expressive face she has character to back it. She will give that charm to her expression which seems to come from inner radiance.

It's easy enough for the home to blame the military and the military likewise blames the home front. Both are in need of vastly more determination if we are to hasten the approach of that new dawn for which the world waits.

Lady Nancy Astor's retirement from public life came as a surprise and regret to most Americans. She is a Virginian of parts; balanced and quick in mind and wit. She has been a high influence in sealing bonds between this nation and Britain. We are proud of Lady Astor.

Life should never be lonely, if one has near at hand books of real character and worth. How easy it is to form close friendships with the well portrayed personalities in such books. These persons are just waiting for your friendship, sympathy and love. They wish to speak to you and need no introduction. That is what it means to have waiting friends on your library shelves. A home without books is only half a home.

The Boston Cream Pie really isn't a pie, and Boston tells the world it isn't from Boston; and if it's all the same with all concerned, we'll take apple pie every time. But when you pass the jelly cake, with a whipped cream top, please call me early.

Balky persons are very much like balky horses, their brains entertain but one idea at a time; try to give both man and horse a new subject for thought, and with the horse it will generally start him on his way with the man or woman, or balky persons in general, a new line of thought will have good results!

"The friendly cow, all red and white I love with all my heart. She gives me cream with all her might To eat with apple-tart." But Robert Louis Stevenson did not have to share his cream with a world war at his heart.

Winning the peace is the difficult task before the world today, not only with Japan to win the war, but to win a lasting peace with Allied Nations.

Every variety of bean has the high worth of its cultivation. In each variety one finds ways of making them edible an attractive in high nutrition and food pleasure.

Modern surgery began when Joseph Lester performed the first antiseptic operation in 1866.

"Father Of the Year" is a fine name; and this title has been given to our President Truman by the National Father's Day Committee, and most worthily.

"Brave Helen York"

Heroine of Oldtime Boston Fire Felicitated On Her 90th Birthday

Her invalid's chair almost engulfed with birthday remembrances Miss Helen M. York sat in her home at 22 Camden street, her face wreathed in happy smiles as she acknowledged the felicitations showered upon her on the occasion of her 90th anniversary.

From far and near came congratulatory messages and a wonderful variety of birthday gifts, the long list of which included a handsome laprobe from her fellow members of the Shakespeare Society and a wheel chair from relatives. Just a bit deaf, and too lame to move about with her oldtime activity, Miss York nevertheless enjoys good health, and discusses the days of yore with the keenest of interest.

Miss York began her newspaper career on the linotype machine which had been newly installed in The Courier-Gazette office. The ensuing years found her employed in newspaper establishments in Cleveland, Ohio, Detroit, Mich., Boston, Portland and Rockland.

It was during her service as a linotype operator in Boston that Miss York became entrapped by fire in the top of a five-story building. When her plight was discovered from the ground the Fire Department rushed a 60-foot ladder which proved too short for rescue purposes. The situation had become extremely perilous when a longer ladder was brought into play.

"They shouted, meantime, and

Camden Girl To Wed

Virginia Pinkham Will Become Bride of John H. Kennedy, U.S.N.

The engagement of Miss Virginia Pinkham of Camden to John H. Kennedy, U.S.N. of Waldoboro is announced by the parents of the bride to be. Kennedy is a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kennedy.

Miss Pinkham graduated from Union High School in 1943, and from the Bates Business College of Augusta in 1944, where she was vice president of the Phi Rho Zeta Sorority. She has been employed at the Veterans Administration in Washington, D. C.

Mr. Kennedy graduated from Waldoboro High School in 1941. He was employed at the New England Shipbuilding Corporation in South Portland until his enlistment in the U. S. Navy in February, 1943. He was assigned to the USS Procyon, on which he served for 20 months in the European Theater and several months in the South Pacific, participating in six major invasions. He is now stationed at San Diego, Calif.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Mrs. Henry Crockett and Mrs. Ralph Cline have returned from Kittery where they went to attend the graduation of Everett L. Baum, Jr., from Traip Academy.

Mrs. Erwin F. Chase is in Boston to meet her husband, who has just returned to the States, after 28 months overseas. Her sister, Mrs. Velma Benson accompanied her as far as Portland.

told me not to jump," recalls Miss York. "But I couldn't have done it anyway."

And then the crowd and admiring firemen, saw this woman descend the long ladder unaided, and the Boston papers of the following day carried a scare head which read, in poster type, "Brave Helen York."

Miss York was employed by the Portland Evening Express 23 years, leaving when that paper was taken over by the Press Herald, though urged to remain.

Coming back to her home town she rejoined The Courier-Gazette staff where she had been a favorite from her early days, and retired only when advancing years had crept upon her.

If there was a Courier-Gazette picnic (as there were many in those days) Helen York was one of the foremost workers; if death or other misfortune entered the home of a fellow employee she was one of the first to offer comfort and assistance. Through her long life it has always been that.

Story Of Noah Emery

Descendants of Whom Are Numbered Among the Residents of Owl's Head

(Fifth Installment)

At the beginning of the Revolutionary War, Noah Emery was nearly 50 years old. He was better fitted by birth, education and experience, to serve his country in the Legislative hall, than in the field. However, in Col. Isaac Wyman's New Hampshire regiment raised during June and July, 1776, to reinforce the Army in Canada, we find that Exeter was represented by "Noah Emery, paymaster."

The sons of Noah Emery were developing true to Emery tradition. John Emery, the youngest son of 1746, was 23. He was married to Margaret Gookin, daughter of Rev. Nath'l Gookin of Northwood. He was the father of two children, Hannah, aged four, and Robert, not quite three. John Emery was a figure of some consequence in the local militia. In 1769, Gov. John Wentworth had encouraged the people of Exeter to form a "corps d'élite" as an example to improve the "morale" of the militia in general. It consisted of a battalion named the "Cadets." It was a handsomely outfitted corps. "Several gentlemen of the town, of age and position joined it, among them George Odiorne, Christopher Rymes, James Hackett, John Emery, Ephraim Robinson, Caleb Robinson, Nathaniel Gookin, and William Elliott."

They were allowed to choose their officers, who were commissioned by the Governor—John Phillips as Colonel, Samuel Pilsom, as Lieut. Colonel, and Peter Coffin, as Major. In 1770 the Governor came from Portsmouth with his lady and suite, when the commissions were published, and dined with Col. Phillips. Two years afterward he paid another visit to "his cadets," as he termed them, and was much pleased with their military proficiency. Col. Phillips took great pride in the precision of his outfit and it got plenty of exercise. Gov. Wentworth furnished the corps with "bright new muskets" and probably felt that he could depend on the support of the Exeter Cadets at all times. "That was an awful mistake on the part of the Governor."

At a meeting of the town held Dec. 26, 1774, we find John Emery named fifth among the 23 men chosen to enforce the non-importation agreement. The popular sentiment about violations of this agreement is plainly shown in a published letter of that time, written from Exeter:

"If this vote of the town, and the law of the province should be ineffectual to prevent them (violators) it is the opinion of many that an experiment ought to be made of Tar and Feathers!"

Noah Emery's second son, Noah, Jr., was "conspicuously active in the Revolution." He was married to Jane, daughter of Dr. Eliphalet Hale and was the father of two little girls, Mary, aged three, and Elizabeth, aged one. When on April 20, 1775, the express arrived in Exeter at daybreak summoning volunteers to march at once to Cambridge, there was no hesitation among the men of Exeter. Noah Emery, Jr., was one of the 108 men who were ready to march at 9 o'clock that morning. John's musket was one of the 25 taken from the stock furnished to the Exeter Cadets by Gov. Wentworth and Noah, Jr., carried it! No time was wasted in preliminaries. The ranks stood in the public square surrounded by the townspeople. The clock struck nine! Someone shouted:

"Which road shall we take?"
"The nearest—through Haverhill!"
"Who shall command us?"
"Captain Hackett!"
"Are you ready?" demands the newly chosen officer.
"Yes! Yes! Yes!"
"March!"
And they were off!

The first night was spent at Andover. Cambridge was reached the next afternoon. The Exeter company was quartered in one of the buildings of Harvard College. One of the men remarked that they found that the floor was just as hard as any other! The next day, permanent officers were chosen—Captain James Hackett; Lieutenants, John Ward Gintan and Nathaniel Gookin; Sergeants, John Taylor Gilman, Gideon Lamson and Noah Emery, Jr.

Most of these served in some military capacity later in the Revolution. The company remained at Cambridge but little more than a week. Then the emergency being over, some returned home and the remainder joined some of the permanent military organizations then forming. Noah Emery, Jr., continued to serve in a military capacity.

Corp. Chandler Improvises Motorcycle From Salvaged Parts

Corp. Earle R. Chandler

A Ninth Air Force Fighter Bomber Base, Germany—"The ingenuity of a Thomaston aircraft mechanic in a Ninth Air Force P-47 Thunderbolt group, resulted in an improvised motorcycle which was constructed from salvaged parts from wrecked gliders and planes, which Corporal Earle R. Chandler, 21, found when he landed in France, four days after the invasion. In Normandy, he assembled the motor scooter in his spare time while "sweating out" his plane on a combat mission. During his travels in France he continued to find parts and added them to his collection.

When his outfit moved to a new location, he decided to make another motorcycle. With the frame of an iron cot found in a German barrack, and tires from the tail wheels of wrecked Pocke-Wulf 190's, the cycle rapidly took on a new appearance. He rebuilt a three speed transmission from a German motorcycle which had been strafed by fighter-bombers in the Saar pocket during the Wehrmacht's retreat across the Rhine.

Cpl. Chandler said: "The motorcycle can climb a pretty steep hill and do about 35 miles per hour. It still isn't finished but I can ride it back and forth to work. I would like to bring it back to the United States with me but it will probably be impossible."

He entered the AAF Feb. 5, 1943, receiving basic training at Miami Beach, Fla. He was sent to the Academy of Aeronautics in New York. From there he went to several other aeronautical schools and to aircraft factories.

Cpl. Chandler has been awarded the European Theatre of Operations ribbon with four battle stars for the Air Offensive of Western Europe, Normandy, Northern France, and Germany campaigns. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Thomas of North Edgcomb, and his wife, Mrs. Eleanor R. Chandler, resides at 3 Georges street, Thomaston.

Dr. P. E. Truesdale

Death of Surgeon Who Performed "Upside Down Stomach" Case—Wife Rockland Woman

Press despatches have recently announced the death of Dr. Philomen E. Truesdale whose operation on a 10-year-old girl with an "upside-down stomach" in 1935 brought him nationwide attention.

Dr. Truesdale's wife was the former Minna Dickinson of Rockland, a relative of the Stover and Blethen families.

Dr. Truesdale already was noted and respected in the medical profession when, in February, 1935, he undertook the case of Avice Jane McHenry, of Omaha, who was wasting away because of the dislocation of her digestive organs. The stomach, spleen, intestines and appendix were crowded into the place where her left lung normally lay and there are innumerable entries in the Journal of the Committee Safety of Noah Emery, Jr.'s work as express and in various other offices.

There is no complete list of the 108 men who marched to Cambridge on that morning of April 20. I am inclined to think that Nicholas Emery, aged 22 years, accompanied his brother Noah on that march to Cambridge. There he may have joined some military unit or he may have accompanied Arnold through the wilderness of Maine to Canada. Certain it is, that he died Sept. 26, 1775.

In Europe, put the wartime credo of Americans in these 14 words. It's good advice to follow not only during war loans but every day. You can't help too much to win a war.

Today's community and national war loan totals should reflect your personal determination to see the war through. Regardless of what the War Bond score is today, it is not high enough unless you have gone to bat and bought bonds to the actual limit of your buying power.

In Which Son of Former Rockland Man Receives Part of the Glory

Robert A. Hall, son of W. D. Hall of Castine is expected at Spruce Head sometime this Summer. The commander of the submarine on which he is serving has received the Congressional Medal of Honor from the President of the United States. He commanded the submarine from the bridge in a 46-minute duel with a heavily escorted Jap convoy.

In a pre-dawn attack, Commander Ramage sank a Jap freighter. Then, exposed by the light of bursting flares, and by shell fire overhead, the submarine struck again, sinking a transport, the leading tanker, and damaging a second tanker.

As a Jap transport closed in to ram the sub, Comdr. Ramage swung the stern of the submarine as she crossed the bow of the onrushing ship, clearing her by less than 50 feet, but placing his sub in the deadly crossfire from ships on all sides.

He sent three bow shots into the transport and then scored a killing hit as a climax to 46-minutes of violent action. The submarine and her crew retired unscathed. Commander Ramage is the first submarine skipper to receive the Medal of Honor while living.

The captain has given each crew member a photo of the President and a folder with a picture of the medal and their inscription:

"To Robert A. Hall: The captain wishes to emphasize the fact that the Medal of Honor was accepted from the President of the United States as the nation's tribute to a fighting ship and her courageous crew. He feels that every officer and man whose loyal co-operation and able assistance, contributed to the success of the ship, has an equal share in this award, which he holds in trust for you.

With great pride and respect,

would be. The lung was collapsed. An unidentified benefactor provided the money to send the girl to Dr. Truesdale's hospital in Fall River. Local newspapers picked up the story, then the wire services spread the story throughout the nation. The operation was a success.

Dr. Truesdale, who had accepted the situation with resignation and co-operated with the press by seeing to it that correct information was distributed about the case, found himself in hot water with some of his colleagues.

Dr. Truesdale denied he had sought the publicity, but maintained that the operation was actually rare, although not to the extent indicated by the attention given the case. Eventually the criticism died down, and Dr. Truesdale was, in effect, exonerated.

Dr. Truesdale graduated from Harvard Medical School in 1898. After internship in Boston he returned to Fall River. In 1902 he earned the commendation of the Boston Obstetrical Society for an unusually complicated Caesarian operation.

In 1905 he founded a private hospital and in 1908 established the Truesdale Hospital at 1820 Highland avenue, incorporated by the State Board of Charities as a voluntary hospital. He participated in the founding of the American College of Surgeons in Washington in 1913. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Minna D. Truesdale; four daughters, Mrs. M. Alexander Philippi, Mrs. Thomas Marvell, Mrs. William Wallace and Mrs. Wilfred Carney; and three sons, Ensign Robert Truesdale, Lieutenant Philomen Truesdale Jr. and John Truesdale.

"Eve Of Victory"

Winner of First Prize In Gregory Essay Contest —By Jane Abbott

In 1781 after six long years of war, George Washington came home to his beloved family. He was to spend a few days in rest and quiet before returning to his troops. Happiness shone from the radiant faces of his family. Peace settled over Mount Vernon. On the wide lawn in front of Mount Vernon, Martha Washington had her customary afternoon tea party. Guests were the French Generals, Rochambeau and Chastellux, and Jack Curtis and his family. On this "Eve of Victory" plans were discussed for the future security of the New Republic.

The Revolutionary War was the first war of the United States for the struggle for independence and the democratic way of life. From the very beginning of the conflict between the Colonies and the Mother Country, the Americans realized that a war with her was a serious matter, and the prospects for bringing such a contest to a successful conclusion without foreign assistance were not very bright.

In the Colonies the people were far from united in their support of the American cause. Practically every community was divided into two factions—one which adhered to the American Cause, while the other supported the policies of the English Tories.

Washington as Commander-in-Chief of the Army proved himself a leader who commanded the respect and admiration not only of his troops, but of the entire country. Although he was forced by larger and more experienced armies than his own and was frequently humiliated by the indifference of the Continental Congress and by lack of interest on the part of the American people, he did not falter in his determination to push the war to a victorious conclusion. His indomitable courage was an inspiration to the soldiers and a comfort to patriotic Americans.

Great Britain was the strongest power in the world; her population outnumbered the Colonies about three to one; her resources and wealth were ten times as great as those of the Colonies and her navy numbered 800 to 900 ships to the practically non-existent navy of America.

Even though Colonial troops were expert in marksmanship and thoroughly at home in guerilla warfare, they were inexperienced in European fighting out in the open. Despite the odds that were against them, the Americans fought fiercely and bravely in their fight for freedom. The winter at Valley Forge was the darkest period of the war for the Americans. Washington's "ill clad, badly fed and worse paid" Army spent there a winter of intense suffering. Men deserted by the hundreds. At one time there were only 2000 men fit for military service, yet the British Commander, the "Cautious Howe," failed to attack.

At this time when all was going badly, the Americans were much heartened by the news of an alliance with the French. For some time the French had secretly been aiding the Colonies with supplies and money. France now felt she dared risk an open alliance with the Americans.

Strengthened by French troops under the command of Rochambeau, Washington, with the combined French and American forces, began a siege of Yorktown. Cornwallis surrendered Oct. 19, 1781. After a long, hard struggle the Colonists won their fight for independence.

While the world was still dreaming about lasting international peace Americans were shocked by the sudden outbreak in 1914 of one of the greatest wars for triumph of good over evil. This was World War One. It was brought about by an orgy of nationalism, imperialism and militarism, in which many great nations of the world had indulged for a number of years.

Each government tried to instill in its citizens a spirit of supernaturalism which led them to the belief that their nation was vastly superior to all others and that their civilization was far in advance of that found among "lesser breeds without law." It was the ambition of each group of these supernaturalists that their nation should acquire greater power and wealth in order that it might establish itself as the leader among world powers.

The nations entered into a race for new colonies, new markets, and new commerce concessions. Such rivalry could not be friendly. The commercial races led to races in the construction of armaments. Europe became an armed camp. Only a spark was needed to kindle the conflagration. The spark was the assassination of the heir to the throne of Austria-Hungary. In 1917 the United States entered this war. All fighting and hostilities ceased Nov. 11, 1918. This was the war we fought and won to end all wars.

Writers pointed out that because of the inventions of deadly weapons and destructive machines of destruction, war had become so expensive, deadly and destructive that the nations of the world could no longer afford them. Nevertheless, Adolf Hitler, the dictator of Germany, and Benito Mussolini, the dictator of Italy, made an alliance called the Axis, and by 1939 they seized possession of several of the small neighboring countries.

President Roosevelt then sent them a message urging them to promise that they would not attack other lands during the next ten years and suggested a peace conference. In September, however, a widespread European war—often called the Second World War—was begun by Hitler's conquest of Polish territory in defiance of Poland's allegiance with France and Great Britain, two great nations that promptly declared war on Hitler. In the Spring of 1940 the European War spread to neutral Europe.

Sunday morning, Dec. 7, without warning, Japan made an air attack on the important naval base, Pearl Harbor, in Hawaii. Dec. 8, Congress passed a joint resolution declaring war on Japan, and Dec. 11, on Germany and Italy.

America is again at war—a war of "blood, sweat and tears." Again we are fighting the war to end all wars. This time the people of America must back up the plans for peace, keep up the home front, and help keep democracy safe. Men, women, children—old and young, weak and strong—must pull together and make sure that they understand what democracy and the American way of life really is.

It is well for us to follow the shining examples of two of our greatest leaders in American history—George Washington and Franklin Delano Roosevelt. Washington had the confidence of the people. The services he rendered, as well as his advice and counsel during difficult times, made him an outstanding leader, and our infant country prospered under his guidance. Again in a time of serious duress we had a man able and willing to help us. The people's confidence in President Roosevelt was shown by his election as President of the United States, four times in succession. He was our guide in peace and war. Franklin Delano Roosevelt made the supreme sacrifice—he gave his life, even as a soldier on the battlefield, for his country. Thus "it is for us the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far nobly advanced that this Nation under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and the government of the people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish from the earth." We must therefore make a supreme effort to strive for utmost co-operation and amity between the United Nations.

Let us build the lovely house of Peace for all men of good will, and let us build together a strong foundation toward the "Eve of Victory" which now seems imminent.
